Description

When naming characters, you can decide to draw inspiration from people you know or popular, common names. But if you wish to be more imaginative, it may be difficult for some to find interesting and diverse names without help. Many generators are available online, some more complex and developed than others. This generator by Masterpiece provides many types of names you can generate for many different characters or story elements in different styles, genres or roles.

Features

Most generators are way less diverse or specific than this one, as it generates names for characters, babies, authors, bands, couples and more, such as pirates, villains, rappers and even countries, foods or houses. You can search at random or filter through many interesting properties, as each category gives you a selection of criteria to adapt the name based on gender, popularity, birth year, personality, style, origin, traits, location, role, etc. and other more specific characteristics of each type of name.

Why using it?

Using such a generator can help you give creative, meaningful or peculiar names to your characters and avoid generic and basic names. It can also be tricky to make sure a name matches the genre, style or atmosphere you want for your story, and it can require time and research to make a name match a certain origin or time period. This generator helps you get specific and detailed in what type of name you need. Although it is not its primary purpose, it can also make you think of certain traits or elements to include in your character building while you answer the different selection questions provided.

How to use it?

If you do not wish to use the specific criteria, it is very easy to use as you can generate random names freely. The presence of many different properties for each category can seem overwhelming for beginners, but it is quite intuitive as you only have to scroll through drop-down criteria, tick boxes or provide information according to your needs or preferences.
